Land trusts to fight housing crisis

The elaboration of common property regimes, as in the use of instruments such as land trusts, could lessen exclusion from property by making housing more affordable. With affordable housing, we can possibly avoid future housing crises.

Take a second look before arbitrating employment claims

While in the past, arbitration agreements could be a quick, effective solution, considering what is required for enforceable employment arbitration agreements, arbitration can actually be a costly endeavor.

Attorneys, Business, Consultants: The ABCs of today's marketplace

Rick Engineering Co. has successfully provided engineering, land surveying, construction management and landscape architectural services for more than five decades in support of the legal profession.

USD School of Law powers up one student's charge for climate change

With the founding of the Journal of Climate & Energy Law, students at the University of San Diego School of Law will focus on how we can address our needs in a way compatible with the physical and environmental limitations of the earth.

Fish & Richardson tops in patent law

Fish's reputation for the highest quality of patent work has been earned by its attorneys, who combine sophisticated knowledge of patent law with broad and deep scientific and technical expertise.

Close-up: Kevin Mirch
In defense of the truth: Mirch Law takes on Goliath on behalf of David

There aren't too many attorneys who would accept cases that involve going up against influential heavyweights, but fear of repercussions has never stopped Kevin Mirch from seeking justice or being vociferous about it.
